Work for Red Cross All Summer.

Will the season at the country clubs be dull or will the war relief classes transplant themselves to the cool shade of the country clubs? The question has been popping into the heads of people interested in the work being done by various organizations. When the summer heat becomes stifling will the hum of workers in the Baird and the Army buildings be as steady as it is now?

Last summer if society people went anywhere they went to the country clubs. This year all those who remain in town will be spending their time in Red Cross, first aid, physical drill, bandage rolling or other classes which are useful in time of war. Can such a revolutionary manner of life continue steadily? Surely some of the classes will grow so warm and uncomfortable that they will themselves away to the comfortable nooks on the verandas of the clubs.

Mrs. O. C. Redick, in charge of the national surgical dressings work, says, "We hope to have the classes work away in the rooms all summer." Red Cross leaders feel that their organizations are too large for transplanting, so that they will be obliged to remain in their downtown quarters. Daughters of the American Revolution workers in the Army building have one of the coolest looking places for summer quarters now in use. The big gray stone building always has a cool, comfortable aspect on the hottest summer day.

Other workers, however, can leave their tables to exercise in the open air without ceasing their efforts. Physical exercise classes could find a shady nook by the rippling brook in some of the parks. Study classes could meet on club porches just as well as in shut-in rooms. Motor drivers, when they have mastered the working of their engines, can seek country roads for trial spins. The work along these lines will not be burdensome; it will merely furnish diversion along pleasant lines.

MRS. METZ SINGS AT BIG JAPANESE FETE

Omaha Couple on Honeymoon Have Many Interesting Experiences in the Orient.

GIVE DANCE EXHIBITION

Another letter from Philip F. Metz to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Metz, has been received. As Mr. Metz and his bride disembarked at Yokohama, some one approached Mrs. Metz and asked, "Is there a Mrs. Metz on board?" It proved to be the Countess Della Faille, wife of the Belgian minister. Having heard that Mrs. Metz sings, she had come with her husband and the wife of the first secretary to meet them and ask for a song at the benefit for the Belgian Red Cross in April. The result was that Mrs. Metz' picture in her wedding gown appeared in the Japanese papers in order to arouse interest in the musical tea dance, and that in addition to Mrs. Metz's song, the two were asked to give an exhibition of American dances.

Luncheon at Legation.

The countess and her husband invited them to luncheon at the legation in Tokyo the next day. There they met Mr. and Mrs. Post Wheeler, American charge d'affaires, who succeeded the late Mr. Guthrie, and saw the city from Mrs. Wheeler's auto after luncheon. The king and queen of Belgium are now occupying the country home of Countess Della Faille outside of Brussels.

At a dinner at the embassy Mr. and Mrs. Metz met many of the foreign diplomats and their wives. Mr. Metz says: "We were surrounded by high sounding titles and our plain Mr. and Mrs. sounded a bit shabby, but that did not prevent their being extremely nice to us. Norma was perfectly at home with her French and made the ambassadors from Europe's gayest capitals, who sat on either side of her, think very highly of her before the evening was over. He was less fortunate, and had to content himself with talking across the table with some other Americans, for on one side he had a Frenchman and on the other a Roumanian officer, neither of whom could speak English."

Concert a Success.

The concert was a huge success from a financial standpoint. Mrs. Metz, according to her husband, "sang divinely" and won the applause of all the Japanese nobility who made a large part of the audience. Their dance he did not consider a great success, although it drew an encore. They were obliged to dance on a stage so small that he was constantly afraid of tumbling off into the laps of some of the Japanese officials in the front row.

After an inland trip they returned to Tokyo for the emperor's garden party, held every year in honor of the cherry blossom season. There were so many Americans traveling in Japan this year that only a few of them could be admitted to the big party. On the back of the admittance card which accompanied the invitation was a list of rules of dress and conduct. Mr. Philip hid him to a tailor for a Prince Albert, because cut-away suits are not permitted at court, dug his tail hat out of a trunk and wore striped trousers. Because he was small like the Japanese he succeeded in renting a coat to fit him, but many of the Americans had to wear unbuttoned coats that made them look like "split string beans." The silk hats that some of them had to rent "must have come over with Commodore Perry in 1853." No one could wear mourning or black of any kind. This put young Mrs. Metz in a quandary, for she wears dark clothes almost exclusively, but an acquaintance lent her a rose-colored straw hat and with that she made shift. All the Americans went in borrowed clothes in order to conform to the rules.

Nearly 3,000 people gathered in the emperor's gardens for the brilliant affair.

What Women Are Doing

Washington, D. C., has eighty women lawyers.

A number of girl cabinet makers are employed in a Milwaukee furniture factory.

The International Association of Policewomen is soon to hold a convention in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Roxana Blaylock, called "the best cook in the county," has been elected police judge of De Soto, Kan.

A large department store in Portland, Ore., has engaged women floor walkers to take the place of men who have answered the call to the colors.

One of the surprising results of the war is the large number of women in England and Scotland who have developed into expert mechanical engineers.

Until the end of the war, says Miss Helena Post of Baltimore, she will play "The Star Spangled Banner" on the cornet each evening in front of her home.

Mrs. Robert Fowler Cummings of Chicago, recently elected president-general of the National Society of New England Women, is the first western woman to hold that position.

Mrs. John A. Logan, widow of the famous soldier, and who is now in her eightieth year, is superintending the making of "joy kits" for American soldiers, sailors and marines.

Because contributions for the relief of Jewish war sufferers have fallen short of the amount needed, Jewish women of Minneapolis have started on a campaign of self denial to raise more money.

MADAME PEYSNER TALKS ON ZIONISM

Says Jewish Problem in Russia Cannot Be Settled by Stroke of Pen.

ZIONISTS PLEDGE SUPPORT

Intimate sketches of the heads of the Russian revolution, including Foreign Minister Milukoff, who was her professor at the University of Moscow, were given by Madame Bella Peyser, Russian Jewish lecturer, in her talk on Zionism Sunday evening at Beth Hamedrosh synagogue.

Madame Peyser does not believe granting legal rights to Jews in Russia will do away with the Jewish problem or rob the Zionist movement of its importance.

"Milukoff himself admitted that one stroke of the pen could not do away with the generations of hatred of the Jew engendered in the Russian breast," said Madame Peyser. "One of the first acts of the Russian Jews on becoming emancipated as it were, was to call a Zionist convention to discuss ways and means of furthering the Zionist movement and bringing about a legally secured home for the Jews in Palestine."

Resolutions pledging the support of the Omaha Zionist group were adopted and will be forwarded to the American Federation of Zionists.

Isidor Ziegler, a candidate for the office of delegate from this district to the Jewish congress, which meets in Washington, D. C., in September to consider the status of the Jew in the international war settlement, was another speaker.

Expectant Mothers Relieved of Pain

Women Use Prescription of Famous Physician.

Since the days of our first parents in the Garden of Eden, women have borne the pain and discomfort of childbirth. Science on its part, has worked to modify and to relieve in part, the dreadful suffering at such a time.

The preparation known as "Mother's Friend" is applied by the mother-to-be herself, externally, night and morning. It relieves the tension on the muscles, cords and ligaments of the abdomen, and the expectant mother is made much more comfortable. The crisis is one of much less pain and danger.

Thousands of women who have used it successfully state that they cannot say enough about the good "Mother's Friend" did for them and refer particularly to the absence of nausea or morning sickness.

Ask your husband to get you a bottle from the drug store. If you wish a valuable book for mothers, write the Bradford Regulator Company, Dept. F. 42, Atlanta, Ga. It is free and will be sent at once.—Adv.
